To the Planning Board:

Please find the attached documents in support of the exemption from the necessity for an Excavation Permit under RSA 155-E:2-a Exception with regards to the construction to be performed at the Community at Village Brook. Previously we have submitted a study performed by Doug Brodeur which supports this action based on the RSA's and case law. I have also included further support by way of previous Intent to Excavate permits that were filed and approved with the Town of Brookline during the past ten years. These previous Intent to Excavate applications were filed based on the Incidental to Construction exception and were in excess of 1000 yards. In fact one application estimated the removal at 100000 yards which is similar to our need.

Section V. of the Town regulation defines the action we are seeking:

SECTION V: EXCEPTIONS FROM AN EXCAVATION PERMIT

A. The following projects are deemed to be an exception from a permit:

1) Incidental excavation of earth that will not remove more than 1,000 cubic yards of earth from the site. In the event that the project will result in the removal from the site more than 1,000 cubic yards, the project will be considered incidental provided that all of the required state and local permits have been issued.

Our site will require the removal of more than 1000 cubic yards and is still considered "Incidental to Construction" per the regulation. Because the amount is greater than 1000 yards (per the second sentence of Section 5. Part 1.) we are also required to obtain a NH Alteration of Terrain permit and a NH DOT driveway permit as well as planning board site plan approval. All of these items have had the applications submitted and fees properly paid for. We are currently waiting for the final approvals. Once we have received these approvals we shall complete the final Notice of Intent to Excavate to be submitted to the Town and NHDRA.

I believe all of this information unequivocally confirms that we will not need to pursue the additional need for an Excavation Permit. If you need additional information please contact me via email.

Respectfully,

Jay Chrystal
Village Brook LLC
